“ Angela. I was heart broken when I heard that you passed away earlier this month. However I was happy to read that you died at home surrounded by light and love from your wife, Donna, your family and your dog. Angela, I so vividly remember the first time I met you. I was a very young boy around 6 or 7 years old back in the mid 1960s. I walked into my Aunt Sue's home on Ritner street and you were sitting on the sofa. My cousin Rita Marie had her head in your lap and you were soothingly scratching her back. For some reason, I felt this Immediate connection with you and was not sure why. I came to understand that connection for me about 10 plus years later, when our paths crossed again. I learned that you were gay, as was I. Maybe back at that first meeting, I recognized that you were "different", just like I was. When we reconnected in the late 70's, we become friends, sharing lots of fun times. Over the years our lives moved in different directions but when ever you would cross my mind or your name would come up by mutual friends, a smile would come across my face and I would get a warm feeling in my heart. Just wanted to share this and say thanks for being you.

Rest in Peace Logg.

Love you,

Alfred (aka Freddie) Giosa

Donna sending you deepest condolences.

Loggia family condolences to you as well.

“Angela, I have know you since I was a Junior in High School. You were funny, upbeat, a rebel without a cause, and some one I admired for just being yourself no matter what anyone thought of you.

I tried several times to reach out. You pushed me away, saying you were dealing "with something" and so was I. I needed your uplifting personality to get me through, but now I understand why the pushback, "I don't need Rita Ann to worry about me too".

I missed the opportunity of visiting you, or sending you a card, or walking around the corner to have a cup of tea and seeing Donna and the pups too!

I wish I was in the loop. But I didn't know and I am sorry I didn't push harder to try and be in your company. Well, RIP my dear friend, my first, my driving instructor, my funny lady!

Watch over me as I pray and talk to you each day. You impacted my life in many ways.

Your friendship was always available to me, that's the Love I have for you!

Be good, stay out of trouble, and don't upset Mom and Dad in being with them in heaven.

Love you always,
Rita Ann
